ETERNAL PUNISHMENT.

BEECHER'S LATEST BENSATION.

He Admits Universal Sinfulness, But Rejects the Doctrine of Future Punishment.

Naw Your, June 14.-Mr. Seedler posreduct his services this convering by an uppend to luminos men in grant their employee a built holiday Saturdays during the Saminer. He said 700 lines in New York and Brooklyn have bained in title moreiful movementamon of the fact of evolution, with the fact that in Adam, all more smooth but admits the universal staffalness flin, he said, is transgression of the law, but all transgress own of his to not one in the other words are for which more are responsible body and soul, to deliberate and purposed contains of known duty, but most of men's sine have aiwayo upung from ratirmity which they will not be hold accountable for lutirmity or wont of full Americage and of fully desnioned moral and physical fuculthe is a memory accompanied of un-folding the method, which God has shown to employ in the world. Why did God chases a method which involves at each stage imperfection, influsity and sickness? Why did not that, being supreme, exclude sin! Beerheer classed these among unarswerable questions, and said one might as well as wey friction saids. We only know that friction is an inestitable concessitant of matter. We cannot explain a reason for it. As to pursimous for su, Beetler sloquently demonsed the old doctors of enternal purshment as repulses, unreasonable and denoralizing. "I hade it, and Beecker, "I hate it because I have trath, because I love God, because I have my followines. The idea that God created a race and that their without experience, file put a under the temptation of an arch found, or that whatever the creature was, is full in disobulience to what it did not understand, so lithat. He not only kicked that out of the Garden of Eden as no par ent would even treat a child in his own house, but then transmitted corruption that was the result of disobedience through countless ages, spreading out and out till the system of nature manufactures damnation right and left, before and behind! I hate it because I have God; I abbor it because I have positive. That system chait is course I have positive. That system chait is used only where ignorance prevails. Men are teld. "You have get to bettere it or be damned," and they say, "Well, rather than be damned, so will believe it." But I say you are damned if you do believe it. But man is made to start and not to stop, to go on and on and up and upward by steadily smarging from the controlling power of physical and animal conditions, into which he was been, teaching higher elements of possibility and ending in the glorious liberty of the Sen of God. In another part of his discourse, Bescher, recurring to this subject, decisred that the introduction of sin into the world by God, with the accompanion tof a borrible punishment for six, could not be justified by n the following remarkable language "But if you take the ground that is consis-tent with Divine justice and humanity; if you obliterate not the question of retributent with Divine justice and humanity, if you obliterate not the question of retribution, or the currying on of cause and effect out of this life and into the sternal, but if you sweep out with the broom of indignation passes that Sheriff Conay and posses have that indeeds git that theology has day under the world; if you take away all these grotesque take away all these grotesque malignout and infernal images that yetpopur late the ignorung brains of men, if you con in the feture field to make us plemery in justice and kindness and gentleness as he was to the beginning, then you have taken very all the difficulties that others in the doctrine. I cannot centent myself with setting down in a wellregulated parish and cipliering out the doc-trine of the simfalness of man and the reas-enableness of sternal punishment.
